Welcome

The Tauranga Jazz Society is thrilled to present the 2026 National Jazz Festival, alongside the inspiring National Youth Jazz Competition. This year, the festival stretches across eleven vibrant days, filling Tauranga and Mount Maunganui with world-class jazz, unforgettable performances, and a city-wide celebration of music and community.

The beloved Jazz Village at Tauranga's Historic Village becomes even more exciting. We're introducing a series of special one-off indoor concerts to the usual buzz of outdoor stages, artisan food stalls and family activities. It's New Orleans spirit with a Kiwi soul - bigger, brighter and more dynamic than ever.

Our Uptown Downtown programme is the perfect way to explore local hospitality while discovering great live music. We're also proud to welcome international artists from the UK, Australia and the USA, performing alongside Aotearoa's finest jazz musicians. And, throughout the festival, the ever-popular Baycourt Concert Series will showcase an exceptional mix of headline shows and intimate performances, powerhouse ensembles.

We warmly welcome the many hundreds of talented young musicians taking part in the National Youth Jazz Competition, and we celebrate all the performers, locals, visitors, supporters and volunteers who make this festival such a special part of Tauranga's cultural life.

A huge thank-you to our Principal Festival Partner and to our Major Funders Port of Tauranga, TECT, and Tauranga City Council, along with all our incredible sponsors. Your generosity and commitment make the 2026 National Jazz Festival possible.

Over 11 days, Tauranga will come alive with jazz - from the buzz of the Uptown Downtown programme to headline shows at Baycourt's Addison Theatre, the popular Jazz Village at The Historic Village, and performances at unique venues such as The Cargo Shed.

Tauranga City Council is proud to support this iconic festival. It adds vibrancy to our city, supports our local economy, and reminds us why Tauranga is such a great place to live, work, play, and visit.

We're also proud to champion the 48th National Youth Jazz Competition and look forward to welcoming hundreds of talented young musicians from across Aotearoa to Baycourt. This annual event plays a vital role in nurturing the next generation of jazz artists.

Kokomo and Friends

Celebrate 35 Years...

In 1991 the Tauranga Jazz Society invited Derek Jacombs, then playing guitar with country legend Ritchie Pickett, to perform a set of blues at the National Jazz Festival.

To bolster his first festival appearance Derek enlisted the help of harmonica player Grant Bullet. They played primarily 1930s blues and it was a huge success. So much so that, with the addition of Grant's bass-playing brother Roger, they formed an acoustic blues trio and spent the 1990s tearing around the country playing over 100 shows in one year alone.

Since then they have played in every corner of New Zealand, from Sweetwaters to the America's Cup; the Aotea Centre to the Blackball Hilton. They have released fifteen albums and a live concert film, and grown from a trad blues 3-piece to a multi-instrumental 5-piece carving out a specific "Kiwiana Blues" niche in New Zealand music.

This year Kokomo return to the National Jazz Festival for their 35th anniversary in a very special collaboration with members of the Tauranga Big Band and with surprise special guests throughout the evening. This will be Kokomo like you've never seen them before – let the fun begin!

Derek Jacombs - vocals, acoustic guitar, Grant Bullet - harmonica, washboard, Nigel Masters - bass, Santiago Rebagliati - electric guitar, Ian "Beano" Gilpin - drums.

Nick Granville's Funk and Drum Extravaganza

This special double-feature show unfolds in two exciting halves.

First up: an organ-driven trio offering a fresh, soulful take on modern jazz. Featuring session guitarist Nick Granville (bandleader), Sydney-based organist Mike Crawford, and the dynamic drumming of Wellington's Mark Lockett, the trio blends bluesy grooves, rich Hammond textures, and improvisation-fuelled energy. The result is a warm, swinging sound that's both classic and contemporary—perfect for fans of vibrant, feel-good jazz.

Then comes the second half: Nick Granville's Double Drum Funk Band, a high-energy, groove-heavy ensemble powered by the explosive synergy of two drummers playing side-by-side: Darren Mathiassen (Shapeshifter, Hollie Smith) and Stan Bicknell (Natasha Bedingfield, Black Comet). Led by New Zealand guitarist Nick Granville, this band brings together Funk, Jazz, and Fusion with tight arrangements, a deep pocket, and plenty of improvisation. Expect everything from Stevie Wonder and Michael Jackson to Classic Rock, Jazz, and beyond—delivered with bold guitar work, big rhythms, and a live show that keeps audiences moving from the first note.

For the finale, Mark Lockett returns, joining the lineup for an explosive three-drummer climax. It's jazz... just not as you've heard it.
